It is a well recognized fact that patient safety is an essential precondition for any program that is aimed to improve quality of care. Unfortunately, adverse events during health care delivery remained a major concern. For example, Health care-associated infection affects millions of people worldwide, about 5% and 10% of patients admitted to hospitals in developed countries and more than 25% in developing country acquire these infections.

To address the aforesaid concerns the Global Patient Safety Challenge 2005-2006, a core programme of the World Alliance for Patient Safety, brings together the WHO Guidelines on Hand Hygiene in Health Care with ongoing work on blood safety, injection and immunization safety, safer clinical practices, and safe water, sanitation and health care waste management.

The usual blame game over adverse events targeted against individual or product has not helped in reducing the risks. The current concepts of patient safety, instead of focusing on poor performance of individual providers, put great emphasis on deficiencies in system design, organization and operation.

The National Patient Safety Conference has following objectives :

1. To enhance participants' understanding of important concepts in patient safety.
2. To exchange information about patient safety initiatives and explore emerging areas of collaboration for better understanding of the extent of problem and to develop solutions.

The conference seeks participation from doctors, nurses, hospital administrators as well as allied health professionals to promote patient safety as a priority in their respective institutions and establish and implement safety programs.
