Dear Members of the AIIMS Family,

As AIIMS marks seventy years of service to the nation, this milestone year offers us a moment not only to reflect on how far we have come, but also to honour what has driven our progress at every stage: discovery, curiosity, and the relentless pursuit of better health through science.

From its very beginning in 1956, AIIMS was envisioned not just as a hospital or a teaching institution, but as a place where new knowledge is created in the service of society. Over seven decades, our researchers, clinicians, scientists, nurses, students, and staff have built a legacy of inquiry that has shaped clinical practice, strengthened public health, and influenced policy across India and beyond. Many of the advances that define modern Indian medicine have their roots in work carried out within these walls.

AIIMS Research Day 2026 stands as a powerful expression of this legacy and our future ambition. It reflects the depth and diversity of work underway across the Institute and highlights the extraordinary commitment of our people to asking important questions and finding meaningful answers. It is through this work that AIIMS continues to evolve from excellence in care to leadership in knowledge.

At a time when India's health challenges are becoming more complex, our responsibility as a national institution is also growing. The strength of AIIMS lies in its ability to integrate science with compassion, and evidence with action. The ideas you generate, the studies you lead, and the data you produce are not just academic achievements but also foundation for better treatment, stronger systems, and healthier lives.

I extend my sincere appreciation to every member of the AIIMS community who contributes to this culture of research and innovation. Your dedication, often unseen, is what sustains our reputation and propels us forward. As we celebrate seven decades of AIIMS, let us also reaffirm our shared commitment to discovery that serves patients, informs policy, and advances the future of healthcare in India.

With warm regards,

( Prof. M. Srinivas )
